

British Values in Art

Our Art curriculum provides a vehicle for furthering understanding of the fundamental British values

 Rule of Law	 Democracy	 Individual Liberty	 Respect & Tolerance
			Mutual Respect	Tolerance of those of different faiths and beliefs
<ul style="list-style-type: none"> When using any equipment and materials in art the children are always aware of the classroom rules as well as the consequences of not following them. We always create a calm, creative environment for the children to express themselves safely. 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> In art, we ensure that the children are aware of and consider the views and values of others, particularly when working collaboratively. When discussing artwork, we may take votes and hold discussions when making decisions about art work. 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> In art, the children are able to express their individuality and creativity through the use of a range of materials. We give the children regular opportunities to make their own decisions and choices in their art projects. Whilst making own choices, the children also know that there are boundaries and which must be respected. 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> We also use art and design as a creative way to experience a variety of festivals and traditions. Children can admire another child's work and share ideas and opinions in a constructive way. In art, ideas and techniques are often shared amongst the children. It is also discussed that art is a subject that can be viewed differently by each individual. Team and paired work encourages respect for each other and responsibility for their own behaviour. 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> In art, the children understand that people have different views and opinions and that that these make them who they are. We are tolerant to such views and opinions and apply these attitudes when working with those who have different faiths and beliefs. We explore beauty through art and continue to do this within the faiths and beliefs of others. We use art as a creative way to experience festivals and traditions. We explore beauty and individuality through art and continue to do this within the faiths and beliefs of others.
